August 2002

The International Foundation for Election Systems (IFES) is a non-profit, non-partisan organization which conducts projects world-wide to assist in the development of democratic electoral systems. While many of IFES' projects involve international experts working in cooperation with firmly established democracies, we feel it is important to create the opportunity for dialogue and mutual cooperation among electoral administrators, legislators, academicians, and legal experts within and among developing democracies in all regions of the world. The mutual support, open exchange of information and experience which arise from such contacts not only assists in the common goal of establishing democratic processes, but assures participants and representatives from all countries that this goal knows no borders, and allows them to acknowledge the mutual commitment of their foreign and domestic colleagues to the attainment of this goal.

This book has been carefully edited by IFES staff. However, due to the detailed process of translation of the laws into Ukrainian, some errors may exist. Consequently, we ask that the reader submit any questions, suggestions, or comments to our Washington office in order to assist IFES in the publication of subsequent editions of this Compendium.

Sincerely,

Article 63. Election of Deputies in Single-Member Zones

1. A candidate who wins an absolute majority of the valid votes of the voters who have taken part in the voting in a single-member zone is considered elected the deputy of the zone to the Assembly.

2. If, in the first round of elections, none of the candidates wins an absolute majority, then after two weeks, a second round of elections is held. In the second round of elections, the two candidates who have received the greatest number of votes in the first round compete.

3. If a candidate withdraws from the second round, the candidate who has won the most votes compared to the other remaining candidates competes in his place in the second round.

4. When three or more candidates win an equal number of votes in the first round, then the two candidates who will compete in the second round are decided by lot. The same procedure is followed to choose the second candidate when one has been determined and the others have an equal number of votes.

5. After determining the need for a second round of elections, the ZEC announces the candidates to be voted on in this round. The announcement is made at the same time as the issuance of the results of the voting in the zone.

Article 64. Voting in the Second Round

1. In the second round of elections, the candidate who has won a majority of the valid votes is considered elected the deputy to the Assembly.

2. If, even after the second round of elections, the candidates have won an equal number of votes, then one of the candidates is elected the deputy of the zone by lot.

3. The CEC organizes the lot procedure whenever it is necessary. The lots are organized in the presence of the candidates.

Article 66. Allocation of compensatory mandates

1. Forty compensatory seats are allocated according to the following rules to political parties and coalitions of political parties.

- a) Parties that win less than 2.5% and coalitions that win less than 4% of the valid votes in the whole country in the first round do not benefit from compensatory seats.
- b) The number of valid votes won by each of the parties and coalitions meeting the respective threshold is divided by the sum of valid votes they have obtained on the national level, and the result is multiplied by 140. Each of these parties and coalitions are allocated initially as many seats in total as the full number obtained by the above-mentioned calculation. The remaining seats are allocated to the subjects with the larger remainders. In case the remainders for the last seat are equal, lots are drawn.
- c) In order to determine the number of compensatory seats to be allocated to each party or coalition, the number of seats won in single-member zones is deducted from the number of seats allocated to each party or coalition according to letter “b” of this article. If the difference is negative or zero, the party or coalition keeps only the mandates won in single-member zones.
- ç) Notwithstanding letter “b,” if:
 - i) independent candidates are elected in one or more single-member zones;
 - ii) parties or coalitions that do not meet the respective threshold win seats in one or more single-member zones; or
 - iii) parties or coalitions that meet the respective threshold win more seats in single-member zones than they are entitled to on the basis of letter “b,” then the following formula applies to the allocation of compensatory seats to parties or coalitions for which the difference according to letter “c” is positive: $N = (A - B) [40 / (40 + C)]$. N is the number of compensatory seats of each party or coalition, A is the number of seats allocated to each party or coalition according to letter “b,” B is the number of seats it won in single-member zones, and C is the total number of seats won according to points “i,” “ii,” and “iii” of this letter (in the cast of point “iii,” only to the extent of the excess). Each of these parties and coalitions are allocated initially as many seats as the full number obtained by this calculation. The seats that remain are allocated to the subjects with the larger remainders, in descending order. In case the remainders for the last seat are equal, lots are drawn.

- d) If a single-member zone deputy was elected as a joint candidate of two or more parties not in a coalition, for purposes of the calculation of letter “c,” his seat is considered to have been won by the party among those nominating him that gained the greatest number of votes in the whole country in the first round, unless the parties have agreed otherwise.
- dh) Deputies are elected from the multi-name lists of parties or party coalitions according to their respective order.
- e) If the number of candidates on a multi-name list of a political party or coalition is smaller than the number of seats to which that party or coalition is entitled, according to this article, the unfilled seats are divided among the other parties and coalitions of parties that exceed the respective threshold in accordance with the following formula:
The number of valid votes won by each of the above parties or coalitions is divided by the total of the valid votes won by them, and the result is multiplied by the number of unfilled seats. A number of compensatory seats is initially allocated to each of these parties or coalitions equal to the full number that results from the above calculation. The seats that remain are allocated to the parties or coalitions with the largest decimal remainders. If the decimal remainders for the last seat are equal, lots are drawn.

1. The mayors of the municipalities or communes, as well as members of the councils of municipalities or communes, are elected by direct voting by the voters with a domicile in the territory of the municipality or commune.

2. The members of the councils of the municipalities and communes are elected on the basis of the multi-name lists submitted by political parties and coalitions, as well as on the basis of individual independent candidacies.

3. Political parties registered in the CEC have the right to submit joint candidates for mayor of a municipality or commune, as well as joint multi-name lists for local councils.

Article 75. Election of the Organs of Local Government

1. The candidate who wins more than half of all valid votes is elected mayor of a municipality or commune. If no candidate wins the required majority, a second round of voting is organized, implementing by analogy article 63 and 64 of this Code.

2. The mandates of the local councils are allocated by the LGEC on the basis of the following proportional system:

- a) The number of valid votes won by each independent candidate is divided by the total number of valid votes and multiplied by the number of seats of the council. If the result is equal to or higher than 1, the independent candidate wins a seat in the council.
- b) The number of valid votes won by each party or coalition and each independent candidate who failed to obtain a seat according to letter "a" of point 2 of this article is divided by the sum of valid votes they have obtained, and the result is multiplied by the number of seats that remain after letter "a" of point 2 of this article is applied. Each of these electoral subjects wins as many seats as the full number obtained from the above-mentioned calculation. If for an independent candidate the result is one or greater than one, the independent candidate wins only one seat. The remaining seats are allocated to the electoral subjects with the larger remainders. In case the remainders for the last seat are equal, lots are drawn.
- c) The candidates of parties or coalitions are elected to the local councils according to the order of the respective multi-name list.
- d) If the number of candidates on a multi-name list of a party or coalition is smaller than the number of seats to which that party or coalition is entitled according to this article, the unfilled seats are divided among the other parties and coalitions of parties that have submitted multi-name lists in accordance with the following formula:

The number of valid votes won by each of the above parties or coalitions is divided by the total of the valid votes won by them, and the result is multiplied by the number of unfilled seats. A number of seats is initially allocated to each of these parties or coalitions equal to the full number that results from the above calculation. The seats that remain are allocated to the parties or coalitions with the largest decimal remainders. If the decimal remainders for the last seat are equal, lots are drawn.

Article 9.6.

Mandates are allocated in each constituency in the following manner: For each political party and coalition, the total number of valid votes received by that political party or coalition shall be divided by 1, 3, 5, 7, 9, 11, et seq., as long as necessary for the allocation in question. The numbers resulting from this series of divisions shall be the “quotients”. The number of votes for an independent candidate is the quotient for that candidate. The quotients shall be arranged in order from the highest quotient to the lowest quotient. Mandates shall be distributed, in order, to the highest quotient until all the constituency mandates for the body have been distributed.

Political parties, coalitions, lists of independent candidates and independent candidates cannot participate in the allocation of mandates if they do not win more than 3% of the total number of valid ballots in an electoral unit.

Article 9.7.

Compensatory mandates shall be allocated in the following manner:

Only political parties and coalitions may take part in the distribution of compensatory mandates. First, the total number of mandates for the legislative body to be allocated for the territory of the respective Entity, reduced by the number of mandates won by independent candidates, is distributed according to the formula set forth in Article 9.6 of this law.

From the number of mandates a list of a political party or coalition has won according to this procedure, the number of mandates won by the same party or coalition, according to the procedure set forth in Article 9.6 of this law, is deducted. The remaining number is the number of compensatory mandates the list wins.

If a political party or coalition receives a negative number of mandates according to the procedure in the previous paragraph, the political party or coalition keeps the mandates won in the constituencies, but does not receive any compensatory mandates. In case one or more lists get a negative number of mandates, the mandates to be distributed according to the procedure of this article is decreased correspondingly to preserve the correct number of mandates in the House of Representatives of the Parliamentary Assembly of Bosnia and Herzegovina elected from the territory of the respective Entity.

Article 9.8.

Compensatory mandates won by a political party or coalition according to Article 9.7 of this law are allocated one by one to unelected candidates on the political party or coalition’s list of candidates for compensatory mandates, beginning at the top of the list, until all mandates are distributed or until the list is exhausted.

Article 9.9.

If a tie occurs because the quotients are identical in the distribution according to Articles 9.6, 9.7, and 9.8 of this law, the mandate shall be allocated on the basis of the drawing of a lot.

Mandates won by a list shall be distributed first amongst candidates on the list who individually received at least five percent (5%) of the total number of valid votes received by that list, these mandates being awarded in the order of the highest number of votes to the lowest number of votes. If there are still mandates to be distributed to a list and the candidates remaining are those who received less than five percent (5%) of the total valid votes received by that list, then distribution of the mandates among the remaining candidates from the list will be done according to their order on the list.

If a political party or coalition does not have enough eligible candidates on the list to fill seats allocated to it, the mandate shall be transferred to the party or coalition's list in another constituency according to the procedure set forth in Article 9.8 of this law.

Article 9.10.

If an elected independent candidate's mandate terminates in accordance with the provisions of Article 1.10 of this law, then the independent candidate's deputy shall succeed to the mandate held by the independent candidate. The deputy shall complete the mandate of the independent candidate and shall assume the rights, duties, and responsibilities of the independent candidate. If the deputy is unable to accept or complete the mandate for any of the reasons set forth in Article 1.10 of this law, then the mandate shall remain vacant until the next regularly scheduled elections.

Article 9.11.

If an elected political party or coalition candidate's mandate terminates in accordance with the provisions of Article 1.10 of this law, then the mandate shall be given to the next candidate from the same constituency list in accordance with Article 9.9 paragraph 2 of this law. (3) Through district State administration offices in the electoral region, and in case of the cities of Prague, Brno, Ostrava, and Plzeň, through municipal authorities of each city, the chairman of the regional election board shall send the ballots reproduced in the above manner to the Mayors, who subsequently shall have the ballots distributed (a) to each voter so that the electorate has received them no later than the third day prior to the day of the elections, and (b) to each ward election board so that the boards have received them on the day of the elections.

Article 39. Voting

(1) Having received a Formal Envelope and if necessary a set of ballots, a voter shall enter a voting booth (Article 17, Paragraph 2 hereinbefore) where he/she shall insert no more than one ballot into the Formal Envelope. The voter shall have the right to express his/her preference by marking the ballot prior to inserting it into the Formal Envelope so that he/she encircles the candidate's ballot position number. No more than four candidates listed on one ballot form may be indicated, and no other ballot editing can be accepted.

(2) A voter who will vote based on a non-local voting permit outside his/her registered electoral area shall be under an obligation to surrender his/her non-local voting permit to the ward election board in the polling station where he/she happens to vote. The ward election board in question shall enclose such non-local voting permit with the extract from the Register of Persons Unable to Vote Locally.

Article 40. Vote Counting by Ward Election Board

(1) After the voting has finished, the chairman of the ward election board shall arrange for the Formal Envelopes and ballots that have not been used by voters to be put under seal. But several of the unused ballots needed by the ward election board for the counting of votes (see Article 42, Paragraph 3 below) shall not be sealed. Then, the chairman shall have the regular ballot-box opened. Should certain voters have required the use of a portable ballot-box, and should the ward election board have used it, the portable ballot-box shall be opened, and the contents emptied shall be added to the contents of the regular ballot-box.

(2) The ward election board shall remove the Formal Envelopes containing ballots from ballot-boxes, count the number of Formal Envelopes found, and compare the number arrived at with records entered into extracts from both the Permanent Electoral Roll and the Register of Persons Unable to Vote Locally. No envelopes other than the Formal Envelopes shall be admitted by the ward election board.

(3) Having emptied Formal Envelopes, the ward election board shall sort the ballots by Political Parties and coalitions voted for, and separately add up the votes cast for each Political Party and coalition, ruling out those ballots that fail to comply with the legal requirements. Further on, the number of voters who have chosen one and the same Political Party or coalition, and who have exercised their right to express their candidate preferences shall be totalled separately for each Political Party and coalition, and the number of the preferential votes cast for each individual candidate on the party/coalition ballot shall then be summed up separately for each Political Party or coalition.

(4) Each member of the ward election board shall have the right to see the contents of any ballot-paper. The regularity of vote counting shall be supervised by the chairman of the ward election board.

Article 41. Validity versus Invalidity of Ballots/Votes

(1) Ballots on which the names of candidates have been crossed out, altered, or to which names of additional candidates have been added shall be deemed valid and cast in favour of the Political Party or coalition designated on such ballots. Such ballot modification shall not be taken into account. Should a voter have expressed his/her preference by indicating more than four candidates on a party/coalition ballot, the ballot shall be deemed cast in favour of the Political Party or coalition in question as a vote choosing the party/coalition 'straight ticket', and the preferential votes on the ballot shall be disregarded.

(2) Choice expressed on ballot-papers other than those having the legitimate prescribed printed ballot form shall be deemed invalid. Should more than one ballot be found in a Formal Envelope, each choosing a different Political Party or coalition, all such ballots shall be deemed to be invalid votes. Should more than one ballot choosing the same Political Party or coalition be found in a Formal Envelope, all such ballots shall be deemed to be one valid vote cast in favour of the Political Party or coalition chosen; moreover, should preferential votes be indicated on one ballot out of several ballots electing the Political Party or coalition, the ballot shall be taken into account, or as appropriate, should there be a ballot indicating a larger number of preferences than the others among the ballots showing preferential vote, this ballot shall be taken into account provided the number of preferences indicated shall not exceed a total of four; should several of the ballots cast in favour of the same Political Party or coalition return equally high number of preferential votes, however, in favour of different candidates, no such preferential vote shall be taken into account.

Article 42. Vote Count Report by Ward Election Board

Then he/she shall wait for the district election board to direct him/herto discontinue the board operations.

(2) Should any chairman of the ward election board fail to meet the obligations arising from the provisions stipulated by the foregoing Paragraph 1 of this Article within twenty-four hours after the end of voting in spite of having been requested to do so by the district election board, the district election board may compute the vote count received in the other electoral wards, and communicate the outcome of the vote in its district electoral area to the relevant regional election board. (3) After both of the two identical copies of the report of the vote count received in the district electoral area have been signed, the chairman of the district election board shall forward one copy of the report to its regional election board without delay, and shall wait for the regional election board to direct him/her to discontinue the board operations. The remaining election-related documents shall be sent by the chairman to the relevant district State administration office for safe-keeping. In the capital of the Czech Republic, Prague, such election-related documents shall be deposited for safe-keeping with municipal district authorities or with neighbourhood authorities, and in the cities of Brno, Ostrava, and Plzeň with municipal authorities of each city.

Article 46. Vote Computing by Regional Election Board

(2) No persons other than members of the Central Election Board, members of its counting team and secretariat staff, and persons authorized by the Central Election Board shall have the right to be present on the premises where the regional election board has been in the process of computing the votes and ascertaining the voting results.

Article 47. Regional Election Board Report

(1) Each regional election board shall prepare two identical copies of the report of the polling outcome within its electoral region. The report shall be signed by each member of the regional election board. Should any of the regional election board members deny such signature, reasons for such denial shall be given.

(2) The report of the polling outcome in the electoral region drafted by each regional election board shall include:

- a) the number of electoral wards in the electoral region in question, and the number of ward election boards that have delivered the vote count;

(3) After both of the two identical copies of the report of the polling outcome in the electoral region have been signed, the chairman of the regional election board shall forward one copy of the report to the Central Election Board without delay, and shall wait for the Central Election Board to direct him/her to discontinue the board operations. The remaining election-related documents shall be sent by the chairman to the Ministry of the Interior to be deposited in safe-keeping.

Article 48. Apportionment of Representative Seats among Electoral Regions [note of the translator]

(1) The Central Election Board shall review the reports of regional election boards, and according to the data reported, shall sum up all valid votes cast within all electoral regions for all party/coalition lists of candidates. Such total popular vote shall be divided by the prescribed number of Delegates in the Chamber of Delegates. The figure obtained in the above manner, rounded off to the nearest whole number, shall define [the average proportion of the of the population in the Czech Republic to be represented by one legislative seat -] the national electoral quota.

(2) The total vote in the electoral region shall then be divided by the national electoral quota, and as many legislative seats shall be allocated to the electoral region as many times the full national electoral quota is contained in the region's total vote count. The same procedure shall be repeated until legislative seats have been allocated for all electoral regions.

(3) If after the above procedure, several seats in the Chamber of Delegates remain to be apportioned, the seats that were not allocated by full national electoral quotas shall subsequently be allocated to electoral regions with the largest remainder of votes after the quota has been subtracted from each region's total vote for each seat it was allocated. The legislative seats shall be allocated sequentially to the electoral regions with the largest remainder until all the seats in the Chamber of Delegates have been apportioned among electoral regions. Should there be several electoral regions with equally highest remainder, lots shall be drawn to determine the winning region.

Article 49. Qualification of Political Parties and Coalitions for the First Scrutiny

(1) The Central Election Board shall calculate the total popular vote won by each distinct Political Party and coalition.

(2) Additionally, the Central Election Board shall calculate:

- a) which Political Party or Political Parties out of the competing opponents has/have obtained less than five per cent out of the total popular vote;
- b) which coalition or coalitions in which two Political Parties are joined has/have polled less than seven per cent out of the total popular vote;
- c) which coalition or coalitions in which three Political Parties are joined has/have received less than nine per cent out of the total popular vote;
- d) which coalition or coalitions in which four and more Political Parties are joined has/have accrued less than eleven per cent out of the total popular vote.

(3) In the course of the subsequent scrutinies and the resulting distribution of legislative seats among Political Parties and coalitions, no further account shall be taken of either the above Political Parties/coalitions or the votes such Political Parties and/or coalitions accrued.

(4) Should the Central Election Board discover that the vote percentage limit entitling the competing entities to qualify for the first scrutiny has not been achieved by at least two coalitions, or one coalition and one Political Party, or two Political Parties, it shall decrease:

- a) the qualifying percentage limit from five per cent down to four per cent in case of Political Parties;
- b) the qualifying percentage limit from seven per cent down to six per cent in case of coalitions defined by Paragraph 2, Letter (b);
- c) the qualifying percentage limit from nine per cent down to eight per cent in case of coalitions defined by Paragraph 2, Letter (c);
- d) the qualifying percentage limit from eleven per cent down to ten per cent in case of coalitions defined by Paragraph 2, Letter (d).

Should such decreases fail to allow for a sufficient number of competing entities to qualify for the first scrutiny pursuant to the provisions of this Paragraph, the Central Election Board shall decrease the qualifying percentage limit by one more per cent.

(5) The first scrutiny shall be instrumental in the conversion of votes to political representation in each electoral region.

Article 50. First Scrutiny [note of the translator]

(1) The aggregate number of votes accrued in an electoral region by all the Political Parties and coalitions which have qualified for the first scrutiny shall be divided by the total number of representative seats allocated for such electoral region, plus one; the number arrived at by means of the aforementioned formula, and rounded off to the nearest whole number, shall define [the average number of votes required in the region for a party/coalition to win one of the representative seats allocated to that region -] the regional vote quota.

(2) The total vote that the Political Party or coalition accrued in the electoral region shall be divided by the regional vote quota, and a seat shall be awarded to the Political Party or coalition as many times as the party/coalition total contains the full regional vote quota.

(3) If in the above manner, one seat is distributed in excess of the number of representative seats allocated to the electoral region, the seat that is awarded in excess of the limit shall be subtracted from the seats assigned to the Political Party or coalition with the smallest remainder of votes after the quota has been subtracted from each party's/coalition's total vote for each seat it is awarded in the electoral region. Should there be several Political Parties or coalitions with equally smallest remainder, then the seat shall be subtracted from the seats awarded to the Political Party or coalition which has accrued the smallest number of votes in the electoral region; should there be more Political Parties or coalitions with equally smallest party/coalition totals, then lots shall be drawn to determine the losing Political Party or coalition.

(4) The seats that a Political Party or coalition wins shall be allocated to its candidates in the order in which they appear on the party/coalition list. Should, however, one tenth or more voters out of the total number of voters choosing the same Political Party or coalition in the electoral region have exercised the right to a preferential vote, the candidate who received the number of preferential votes which equals or exceeds ten per cent of the total vote obtained in the electoral region by the Political Party or coalition the candidate represents shall be awarded a seat first. If a Political Party or coalition is entitled to more than one seat, and if more than one candidate of that Political Party or coalition complies with the provisions of the foregoing clause, seats shall be awarded to such candidates sequentially according to the total of preferential votes they polled, the formula being the higher the number of preferential votes received, the first in turn to be awarded the seat. If the number of preferential votes polled by the candidates who represent one Political Party or coalition, and who comply with the above provisions is equal, the candidates' positions as they appear on the party list shall then be determining.

(5) Should a Political Party or coalition have nominated fewer candidates than the total number of seats the Political Party or coalition has secured in the first scrutiny, the Political Party or coalition shall be entitled only to so many seats as it has nominated candidates.

(6) The chairman of the Central Election Board shall declare the first scrutiny closed, and communicate its outcome to the representatives of the Political Parties or coalitions which have qualified for the first scrutiny.

Article 51. Second Scrutiny [note of the translator]

(1) The legislative seats that remain to be distributed shall be allocated by the Central Election Board in the second scrutiny. All the votes remaining of each party's/coalition's vote after the first scrutiny shall be transferred to the second scrutiny as well as the total vote accrued by Political Parties and coalitions that failed to receive any seat in the first scrutiny.

(2) No later than twelve hours following the conclusion of the first scrutiny, chairmen of Political Parties, and/or persons authorized to act on behalf of coalitions shall tender their lists of candidates who will contest a legislative seat in the second scrutiny to the chairman of the Central Election Board. The number of candidates listed in the lists of candidates nominated for the second scrutiny shall not be limited, however. Political Parties and coalitions shall have the right to list only those candidates who had already been nominated to run for election in one of the electoral regions and who failed to secure a legislative seat in the first scrutiny. After the lists of candidates contesting a legislative seat in the second scrutiny have been delivered to the board, neither may the candidates be substituted, nor their position on the list be altered. Should the chairmen of Political Parties, and/or the persons authorized by coalitions fail to deliver their list of candidates within the above defined period of time, the Central Election Board shall select the candidates for the second scrutiny for them according to the number of preferential votes each particular candidate of the party/coalition in default accrued.

(3) In the second scrutiny, the Central Election Board shall add up all the party/coalition votes remaining from the first scrutiny. The total thus obtained shall be divided by the number of legislative seats yet to be distributed, plus one. The number arrived at by the aforementioned formula, and rounded to the nearest whole number, shall define [the average number of votes required for a party/coalition to win one of the representative seats yet to be allocated in the second scrutiny -] the country vote quota. Each Political Party or coalition shall then be awarded as many seats as many times the full country vote quota shall be contained in the sum of the remaining party/coalition vote transferred from the first scrutiny.

(4) If after the above procedure, several seats still remain undistributed, the seats that were won by full country vote quotas shall subsequently be awarded to Political Parties and coalitions with the largest remainder of votes after the quota has been subtracted from each party's/ coalition's total of remaining votes for each seat it was awarded in the second scrutiny pursuant to Paragraph 3 of this Article. The legislative seats shall be awarded sequentially to the Political Parties and coalitions with the largest remainder until all the remaining seats have been assigned. Should there be several Political Parties or/and coalitions with equally highest remainder of remaining votes, a legislative seat shall be awarded to the Political Party or coalition with the largest total of remaining votes transferred from the first scrutiny to the second scrutiny. If such vote remainder totals is equally highest in the case of several Political Parties or coalitions, a representative seat shall be awarded to the Political Party or coalition which has accrued the highest popular vote of these competitors; should the total popular vote accrued by several Political Parties and/or coalitions be equally highest, lots shall be drawn to decide. The procedure hereinbefore described shall apply should a Political Party or coalition have nominated a smaller number of candidates for the second scrutiny than the number of representative seats awarded to such party or coalition.

(5) If in the above manner, one seat was distributed in excess of the number of representative seats to be distributed in the second scrutiny, the seat that was awarded in excess of the limit shall be subtracted from the seats assigned to the Political Party or coalition with the smallest remainder of votes after the quota has been subtracted from each party's/coalition's total of remaining votes for each seat it was awarded in the second scrutiny. Should there be several Political Parties or coalitions with equally smallest remainder of remaining votes, then the seat shall be subtracted from the seats awarded to the Political Party or coalition which has accrued the smallest total popular vote of these competitors; should there be more Political Parties or coalitions with equally smallest party/coalition totals, then lots shall be drawn to determine the losing Political Party or coalition.

(6) The seats that a Political Party or coalition wins shall be allocated to its candidates in the order in which they appear on the party/coalition-compiled list of candidates for the second scrutiny.

(7) Candidates who have succeeded in securing a legislative seat in neither the first scrutiny nor the second scrutiny shall become stand-ins.

Article 52. Central Election Board Report and Declaration of Election Results

(1) Following the conclusion of the seat distribution process of the first and the second scrutiny, the Central Election Board shall prepare its report of the final result of the election. The report of the Central Election Board shall be signed by its members, and should any of the Central Election Board members deny his/her signature, reasons for such denial shall be given.

(2) The Central Election Board report of the final result of the election shall include:

- (a) the total number of persons registered in extracts from Permanent Electoral Rolls and in extracts from Registers of Persons Unable to Vote Locally;
- (b) the total number of voters to whom Formal Envelopes were handed over;
- (c) separate numbers for the total vote obtained by each and every party/coalition-compiled list of candidates in each and every electoral region;
- (d) names and surnames of candidates who, in the first scrutiny, were elected Delegates out of the party/coalition candidate-column on each list of candidates, along with conclusions of preferential voting; and names and surnames of candidates elected Delegates in the second scrutiny as well as the names and surnames of candidates who have become stand-ins.

(3) Immediately after the signature of the report of the election results has been signed, the Central Election Board shall declare the final election results. Indicative data defined in Paragraph 2, Letters (a), (b), and (c) may also be announced.

Article 53. Confirmation of Election

No later than one month following the declaration of the results of the elections, the Central Election Board shall issue a Confirmation of Election to the Delegate-elects, authenticating their election to a seat in the Chamber of Delegates.

Article 54. Filling Vacancies by Stand-Ins

(1) If a mandate of a Delegate ceases to exist, and his/her seat becomes vacant, a stand-in shall fill the vacancy who was nominated for election by the same Political Party or coalition as the Delegate first in office, and who was on the list of candidates registered in the same electoral region as the Delegate first in office. The said stand-in who is next in succession according to the election results after the first scrutiny shall assume the office, and should there be no such stand-in, the stand-in who is next in succession according to the position in which he/she appears on the party/coalition list of candidates for the second scrutiny shall assume the office.

(2) Should there be no stand-in from the Political Party or coalition whose seat has become vacant, the seat shall remain vacant until the electoral term has expired.

(3) If a Political Party is dissolved, no stand-in shall fill the vacancy, and the seat shall remain vacant until the electoral term has expired.

(4) No later than the fifteenth day following the day on which the mandate of a Delegate ceased to exist, the Chamber of Delegates shall pronounce the stand-in to assume the office of the Delegate first elected, and deliver the Certificate of Election to this new Delegate, affirming him/her in office and stating the date as of which the Delegate is in office.

(5) If activities of a Political Party are suspended, for the duration of the suspension no vacancies in seats held by the party shall be filled by stand-ins.

Article 55.

Should the Chamber of Delegates be dissolved, the periods of time defined in Article 12, Paragraph 1, Article 13, Paragraphs 2 and 3, Article 14, Paragraph 1, Article 28, Paragraph 1, Article 29, Paragraph 1, and Article 31, Paragraphs 1 and 3 shall be abridged by one third. - (a) all candidates who have done so during the first poll may stand for election;
- (b) the candidate having obtained the greatest number of votes validly cast, provided that the turnout exceeded one-fourth of electors in the constituency, shall become an MP.

(3) If during the first poll the turnout exceeded one half of electors in the constituency, but no candidate has obtained more than half the votes validly cast (unsuccessful poll), during the second poll:

- a) the candidates having obtained at least 15 % of the votes validly cast during the first poll may stand for election; if there are not three such candidates, the three candidates having obtained the greatest number of votes during the first poll may do so; if any one of the candidates decides to step down during this time, no other candidate may take his/her place;

- b) the candidate having obtained the greatest number of votes validly cast, provided that the turnout exceeded one-fourth of electors in the constituency, shall become an MP.

(4) Abrogated

(5) A by-election shall be conducted in an individual constituency where, for lack of candidates, it was impossible to hold the first or second poll.

Article 8.

(1) The candidates on party lists in territorial constituencies shall obtain mandates in proportion to the number of votes cast, to be calculated in the manner specified by the Schedule hereto, in the order in which they are included in the lists, provided that the turnout exceeded one half of electors.

(2) If the first poll in a territorial constituency is invalid because the turnout did not exceed one half of electors, all candidates on party lists who have done so during the first poll may stand for election during the second poll. The candidates on party lists shall obtain mandates in proportion to the number of votes cast, to be calculated in the manner specified by the Schedule hereto, provided that the turnout exceeded one-fourth of electors.

(3) If, following the calculation in accordance with paragraphs (1) and (2), there remain vacant mandates in a territorial constituency, a mandate shall be obtained even by a list that received a number of votes smaller than, but exceeding two-thirds of, those required for a mandate. If there are several such lists, the mandate shall be obtained by the one that has received the next greatest number of votes. If after the calculation there still remains a vacant mandate, it shall be added to those obtainable on the national list.

(4) In the case of a mandate being obtained under para. (3), the difference between the numbers of votes required for a mandate and actually received shall be deducted from the national aggregate of surplus votes obtained by the party putting forward a candidate.

(5) If, however, a territorial party-list failed to receive more than two-thirds of votes required for a mandate in the constituency concerned, or more than 5 % of the national aggregate of the votes validly cast for the territorial party-lists, the party-list shall not obtain a mandate even in the case covered by paragraphs (1) to (3). In this respect only the validly cast votes for the same party territorial lists have to be aggregated. Parties presenting a common or combined list do not receive a mandate, if they fail to receive at least 5 % per party, or in the case of more than three parties, a total of at least 15 % of the national aggregate of validly cast votes. If a party presented common candidates, or common or combined lists, with different parties, in two or more individual, or territorial constituencies, the votes must be aggregated separately for the common candidates, or common or combined lists, when aggregating surplus votes and defining the limit percentage, and also when handing out mandates.

(6) The parties which notified the combination of their lists at least 8 days before election shall obtain mandates in proportion to the aggregate votes cast for their respective lists. The notification to the electoral board shall also indicate the order in which the candidates are to obtain a mandate. The notification shall be made public by the electoral board.

(7) The parties which presented a common list, or combined their respective lists in a territorial constituency shall, at least 8 days before election, notify to the electoral board the proportion in which their surplus votes on the common list or the combined ones are to be taken into account in the national aggregation of votes.

(8) If two or more parties have received equal numbers of votes and stand to obtain mandates with those quantities of votes, but the number of mandates in the territorial constituency is smaller than that of the parties having received equal numbers of votes, the mandates shall be distributed in the order of the ordinal numbers of list.

(9) If no party-lists are presented in a territorial constituency, the respective mandates for that territorial constituency shall go on the national list, and shall be distributed according to the surplus votes.

(10) If the second round of election shall prove to be unsuccessful in a territorial constituency, because not even a quarter of the electorate cast their votes, then the votes cast in the first round of election shall be considered as surplus votes, and the vacant territorial constituency mandates shall be distributed on the national list.

Article 9.

(1) Candidates on national lists shall obtain mandates in proportion to the national aggregates of surplus votes and in the order notified. To be counted as surplus votes are those:

- a) which were cast, in an individual constituency during the first valid poll, for party candidates who did not obtain a mandate during either poll;
- b) which were cast for lists, in a territorial constituency during the valid poll, in a number smaller than required for mandate, or which exceeded the number of votes required for a mandate.

(2) Votes cast during an invalid poll shall not be counted as surplus votes under para. (1) and hence shall not be taken into account for purposes of obtaining mandates on the national list - except for the event of Article 8 para. (10) -. Similarly, the votes cast for the territorial lists of the party whose votes on those lists and whose national aggregate of votes do not exceed the percent limit, defined in Article 8 para. 4. If the candidates received an equal amount of votes, the oldest by age candidate shall become a Seimas member.

Article 89. The Establishment of the Election Results in the Multi-member Constituency

1. The elections shall be considered to have been held in the multi-member constituency if more than one fourth of all voters have participate in them.

The list candidates of the party may receive mandates of Seimas member (takes part in the distribution of mandates) only if not less than 5 percent of the voters participating in the elections voted for it. The joint list of candidates, drawn up in accordance with Article 43 of this Law, may receive mandates of Seimas member (takes part in the distribution of mandates) provided that not less than 7 percent of the voters who participated in the election have voted for it. 3. Mandates for lists of candidates shall be distributed according to the number of votes received by each of them, applying the method of quotas and remainders.

4. At first, the quota shall be counted, that is, how many votes are needed to receive 1 mandate. It shall be equal to the sum of votes, divided by 70, cast by voters for the lists participating in the distribution of mandates. If when dividing, a remainder is received, 1 shall be added to the quotient.

5. The amount of votes cast for each list shall be divided by the quota. The received integer quotient shall be the number of mandates for each list according to the quota and the remainders of this division shall be used to distribute the remaining mandates according to the remainders. Therefore, all names of the lists shall be written down in succession in which the first follows the last, according to the size of the remainders of the dividing received by the lists, beginning with the largest. If the remainders of two lists are equal, the first written down shall be the list which have received more votes of voters and if these numbers are also equal, the first written down shall be the list which has received more mandates in all single-member constituencies. If the number of mandates is also equal, the first written down shall be the list which possess the smaller election number. The mandates which have not been distributed when distributing by the method of quotas shall be distributed by one to the lists according to the succession, beginning with the list which was written down first.

6. If one of the lists received the larger number of mandates than there were candidates on the list, these mandates would be distributed to other lists, further continuing the dividing thereof by the method of remainders.

7. Candidates of the same list shall receive mandates in the numerical order established by the Central Electoral Committee which has established the rating of candidates. Those candidates who are elected in single-member constituencies shall be omitted from the list.

8. If the party, coalition submits together with the application documents the request that the rating of their candidates should not be established, voters shall be notified about this in advance, indicating this in a ballot paper and the rating of candidates shall not be counted, and the registered sequence of candidates on the list shall be considered final.

2. At first preference votes cast for each candidate in single-member constituencies shall be summed up and the sum total of all the preference votes for each candidate shall be calculated. In the event when the sum total of the candidate's preference votes is bigger than the number of Seimas members who are being elected in the multi-member constituency or such sum is equal to the said number, election rating of the candidate shall be equal to that sum, if it is smaller - election rating of the candidate shall be considered to be equal to zero.

3. Then the points of the rating received by each candidate for Seimas member shall be calculated. They shall be equal to the product of two numbers - election rating (the first factor) and party's rating (the second factor). Election rating shall be an integer number which is established by the Central Electoral Committee for each candidate in accordance with election numbers of the candidates in such a way that party's rating of the candidate who has the first election number would be 20 times higher than party's rating of the candidate who has the last election number on this list of candidates, and the difference of party's ratings of the candidates from the list whose election number differs by one digit, would be equal to 19. Party's rating of the candidate who is the last on the list, which is determined in such a way, shall be lower by one digit than the number of candidates on this list, and party's rating of the candidate who is the first on the list shall be 20 times higher than party's rating of the candidate who is the last on the list.

4. The final order of candidates for Seimas member on the lists shall be established according the points of the rating received by each candidate. The first written down in the succession shall be the candidate who have received more points of the rating. In the event that several candidates receive the equal amount of the rating points, then the first written down shall be the candidate whose election rating is higher. If the election ratings and candidates' ratings are also equal, then the first written down shall be the candidate whose party's rating is higher.
